Ferris Communications

What does it take to make a successful business? Vision is one important element. Now in their 20th year,

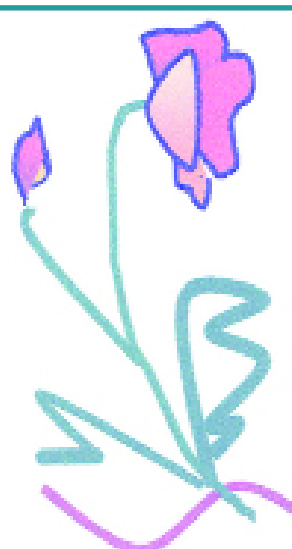

Ferris Communications is an outstanding example of a business that has always had the vision to look into the future and determine the needs for their consumers.

Now, with the recent merger of Sprint with Nextel, Ferris Communications offers an even greater amount of service to an even larger market. For years, Nextel was the state-of-the-art supplier of cell phone technology to the business market. Meanwhile, Sprint was actively and efficiently serving the consumer market. Now these two giants in the industry have merged and offer the best of both worlds to both consumer and business community alike.

Back in November of 1985 Doug Ferris, and his dad, Doug Ferris, Sr., saw that cellular phones were going to be in big demand. He decided to go into the business. In 1995 this little company had grown to the point that they became the agency for Nextel, and now Sprint as well, and today they rank as one of the major communications companies in all of San Diego County.

Today, Doug Ferris delights in explaining the many ideas for great new equipment and gifts available at Ferris Communications. You may wish to surprise that businessman with a Blackberry cell phone, another state of the art communication device. Or, how about a new Sprint phone with all the extras? Text messaging, camera, MP3 player . . . or how about a Sprint "Air Card?" Use your cellphone most anywhere! There's a whole family inventory available at Ferris Communication. Just stop by and ask them for help in planning your communication needs. Doug Ferris continues to oversee his Ferris Communications business, seeing to it that his customers are given great sales support and service after the sale. Have a question on cell phones? He has a staff that can get all the answers for you! Give 'em a call at Ferris Communications. 744 6887.
