AND A FOOTNOTE "THERE IS NO RETIREMENT -- EVER!"

"BAIL 'EM OUT!?"

Hell, back in 1990, the Government seized the Mustang Ranch brothel in Nevada for tax evasion and, as required by law, tried to run it. They failed and it closed.

Now we are trusting the economy of our country and our banking system to the same nit-wits who couldn't make money running a whore house and selling whiskey?

to qualify for the $600,000 government grant for mail service.

In modern terms, what the two stage lines offered in mail delivery could be the contrast between today's fiber optic network and a dial up computer connection. In the mid-19th century, bringing the continent together by stageline from St. Louis to San Francisco with such unheard of speed elicited wonder and excitement and tremendous pride.

The undertaking was enormous. Butterfield, in association with the principals for Wells, Fargo & Co. (for the American Express Co.), invested more than a million dollars getting the stage line organized. The company had to build or repair roads and bridges, set up and staff about 150 stations, purchase stagecoaches and wagons, as well as buy horses, mules, and feed. Water wells had to be dug and mountain passes cleared. And, there were 800 employees to be hired!

The passenger fare was $200.

Twenty-five pounds of baggage were allowed, along with two blankets and a canteen. Stages traveled at breakneck speeds, twenty-four hours a day. There were no overnight hotel stops—only hurried intervals at stations where the teams were changed.

Overland travelers who booked passage to San Diego on the Butterfield line left the Stage Coach at Warner's Ranch and traveled a shuttle line that wound down into Santa Isabel, then to Rincon, through San Pasqual Valley, into Poway, over the mesa to San Dieguito Valley, and then back of what is now Del Mar, through Sorrento Valley and up Rose Canyon and on into Old Town.

Competition to Butterfield's line was mounted by William Russell,

William Waddell, and Alexander Majors in 1860 in the form of the Pony Express. It began relay operations along a central/northern route. While it succeeded in delivering the mail within 10 days time between St. Joseph, Missouri, and Sacramento, the company failed to get the U.S. mail contract and became enmeshed in debt.

The transcontinental railroad soon replaced the need for overland stagecoaches and the old Butterfield line was never resurrected.

After crossing the desert, the Butterfield stage stopped at Warner's Ranch. From there, the route was beside Temecula Creek, along the back side of the Palomar mountains to the stage station at the Indian village of Temecula, and then on to Los Angeles.

The only surviving station building is Oak Grove Butterfield Stage Station, near Warner Springs in San Diego County, California.[citation needed] It and the location of Warner's Ranch, another station 20 miles (32 km) away, were declared to be National Historic Landmarks in 1961.
