across Indian lands.

We saw the first train of cars that any of us had seen. We looked at it from a high ridge. Far off it was very small, but it kept coming and growing larger all the time, puffing out smoke and steam; and as it came on, we said to each other that it looked like a white man's pipe when he was smoking.

Porcupine

The Cheyenne and Arapaho and Lakota resented the railroad's intrusion. They de-railed trains, ransacked freight cars, fired on surveying crews. The Union Pacific fell behind schedule.

On June 26th, 1867, an Army detail was overtaken by a war party. One of those killed was Frederick Wyllyams who had come all the way from England in search of adventure. Another Englishman, an amateur ethnologist, photographed his countryman's corpse:

The muscles of the right arm, hacked to the bone, speak of the Cheyennes, or "Cut arms;" the nose slit denoted the "Smeller tribe," or Arapahos; and the throat cut bears witness that the Sioux were also present ... it was evident, from the number of different devices, that warriors from several tribes had each purposely left one in the dead man's body.

Dr. William Bell

Finally, five thousand troops were sent west to provide the railroad workers with protection. The crews went back to work.

And thus the railroad, and the west, grew. There are still trains, still cowboys, though fewer in number . . . and the West? Well, we're still here. And we've got lots of memories.

'Chuckles' Cont. from Page 13

20 complaints from people going on holiday.

Enjoy!

20. It's lazy of the shopkeepers to close in the afternoons. I often needed to buy things during "siesta" time – this should be banned.

19. We booked an excursion to a water park but no one told us we had to bring our swimming costumes and towels.

18. I think it should be explained in the brochure that the local store does not sell proper biscuits like custard creams or ginger nuts.

17. We had to queue outside with no air conditioning.

16. We found the sand was not like the sand in the brochure. The brochure shows the sand as yellow but it was white.

15. I compared the size of our one-bedroom apartment to our friends' three-bedroom apartment and ours was significantly smaller.

14. No-one told us there would be fish in the sea. The children were startled.

13. We bought "ray-ban" sunglasses for five euros from a street trader, only to find out they were fake.

12. There are too many Spanish people. The receptionist speaks Spanish. The food is Spanish. Too many foreigners.

11. The beach was too sandy.

10. I was bitten by a mosquito, no one said they could bite!

9. On my holiday to Goa in India, I was disgusted to find that almost every restaurant served curry. I don't like spicy food at all.

8. My wife got very bad sunburn on our holiday, we should have been warned that the sun was very hot at the poolside.

7. A woman threatened to call the police after claiming that she'd been locked in by staff. When in fact she had mistaken the "do not disturb" sign on the back of the door as a warning to remain in the room

6. A guest at a Novotel in Australia complained his soup was too thick and strong. He was inadvertently slurping the gravy at the time.

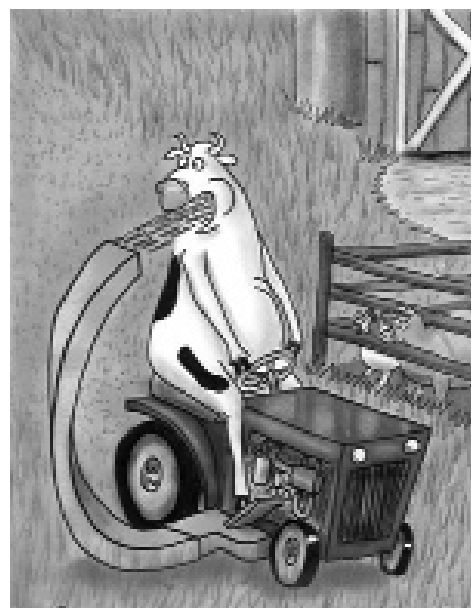

5. My fiancé and I booked a twin-bedroom but were placed in a double-bedded room. We now hold you responsible for the fact that I found myself pregnant. This would not have happened if you had put us in the room that we booked.

4. A tourist at a top African game lodge overlooking a waterhole, who spotted a visibly aroused elephant, complained that the sight of this rampant beast ruined his honeymoon by making him feel "inadequate."

3. It took us nine hours to fly home from Jamaica to England it only took the Americans three hours to get home.

2. The brochure stated: "No hairdressers at the accommodation." We're trainee hairdressers – will we be OK staying here?

1. Topless sunbathing on the beach should be banned. The holiday was ruined as my husband spent all day looking at other women.
